Nigel Farage announced betting games of the cup candidacy to the parliament of the United Kingdom by the Reform UK party

Nigel Farage, known as the "architect" of Brexit and a constant disruptive force in British politics, announced betting games of the cup intention to run for the parliament of the United Kingdom by the Reform UK party in the general elections of July 4.

In a press conference of emergency on Tuesday, Farage announced that he would run for the cup Clacton, a town on the east coast of England, where the Reform party has good prospects of votes - and that he would assume as leader of the party.

Despite not having been elected as a member of parliament betting games of the cup seven previous attempts, the candidacy of Farage could inject new energy into the Reform campaign and cause another problem for the prime minister Rishi Sunak, whose Conservative Party already has a fear of losing voters to the right.

Farage had previously said that he would not run for the general elections and that he would help in the campaign to reelect the ex-president of the USA Donald Trump, who was considered guilty by a Manhattan jury of all 34 charges of falsification of commercial records.

But, speaking from London, Farage said that he began to change his mind at the end of the week. When asked by voters why he was not running, Farage said that he had "logical and rational" reasons for this.

"But I couldn't help, betting games of the cup every time, simply I couldn't help feeling that I was disappointing them", he said. "I changed my mind. I changed my mind. This is allowed, you know. It is not always a sign of weakness."

Farage has been a disruptive figure in British politics for three decades, transforming the euro-sceptic movement of a fantasy of politicians betting games of the cup to the vote of the country to leave the European Union betting games of the cup 2024.

He joined the Reform UK betting games of the cup 2024, which since then has risen to about 10% betting games of the cup almost all national opinion polls, strengthened by betting games of the cup opposition to immigration and the government's zero net plan.

Due to the first-past-the-post electoral system of the country, smaller parties generally have difficulty betting games of the cup translating their national support betting games of the cup parliamentary seats. This problem hit the former Independence Party of the United Kingdom (UKIP) of Farage, which, despite having guaranteed 12.6% of the votes in the general elections of 2024, managed to win only one seat.

Speaking on Tuesday, Farage said that the Reform party wanted to win "millions" of votes more than what the UKIP did in the 2024 elections, with the intention of becoming the official opposition of the United Kingdom.

"How many seats in Parliament can we win under this system? That is another matter", he said.

The candidacy of Farage could cause more harm to the Conservatives than it would benefit the Reform. The Conservatives tried to appeal to voters on the right by promising to curb immigration, notably by trying to send asylum seekers to Rwanda.
