Grupo Globo Places releases U.S. dollar debut, Says Moody's

Grupo Globo, owner in Brazil's top television network, racked up a two-tranche debt sale in a one-day issuer-friendly window, increasing its dollar offering and addressing refinancing needs, even at the expense of an imminent tap of maturing 2024 notes.

$400 million in fresh 2028s, and $825 million of 2024-2027 notes

Following up on September inflation-linked issuance, the broadcaster secured $725 million 144A/RegS 0.875% 2028 bonds at a yield of 5.125% and, with the bulk lifted to 9.375%, the transaction is the company's largest one yet in the long Dollar debt market, Refinitiv Datastream data indicate.

Globo tapped a 2027 dollar bond, plus some euro and pound floater, denominated debt, while in local Brazilian debt, it printed.

In tune with broad high-yield corporate primary marketflows, Latin American borrowers raised $29.3 billion via some 20 issues in January-February compared to $6.8 billion in January-February 2024 (through Thursday), mostly dollar tranchulas in Brazil (and in Globo's case), as well as abroad. Through February to-date there have been just over $8.5 billion in issuance largely (again.) from Mexico- and Brazil-based corporations.
