Game of chance played with cards

"Yablon" redirects here. For the Russian river, see

Yablon (river)

A round of red dog. Dealt 7 two cards whose values are neither the same nor adjacent to each other, the player bets on whether the value 7 of the third card will fall between the value of the first two.

Red dog, also known as Yablon, is a 7 game of chance played with cards, in which two cards are dealt and a player bets on whether the rank 7 of a third card would fall between them. While found in some land casinos, its popularity has declined, although it 7 is featured at many online casinos.

A standard

52-card deck is used. The game may be played with anywhere from one 7 to eight decks, with an increasing number of decks decreasing the house's edge—the house's advantage begins at 3.155% with one 7 deck but falls to 2.751% when eight decks are used. This is in contrast with some other casino card games, 7 such as blackjack, where a higher number of decks used will increase the house edge.

A close variant is Acey Deucey.

Red 7 Dog [edit]

Two cards dealt with consecutive ranks are a "push", returning the player's wager.

The game only uses three 7 cards at a time, which are ranked as in poker, with aces high. Suit is irrelevant. A wager is placed, 7 and two cards are placed face up on the table, with three possible outcomes:

If the cards are consecutive in number 7 (for example, a four and a five, or a jack and a queen), the hand is a push and the 7 player's wager is returned.

(for example, a four and a five, or a jack and a queen), the hand is a 7 push and the player's wager is returned. If the two cards are of equal value , a third card is 7 dealt. If the third card is of the same value, then the payout for the player is 11:1, otherwise, the 7 hand is a push.

, a third card is dealt. If the third card is of the same value, then the 7 payout for the player is 11:1, otherwise, the hand is a push. If neither of the above is the case 7 (for example, a three and an eight), then a spread is announced which determines the payoff (a 4-card spread, in 7 this example), and a third card will be dealt. Before dealing the third card, the player has the option to 7 double his bet. If the third card's value falls between the first two, the player will receive a payoff according 7 to the spread; otherwise, the bet is lost.

Spread [edit]

The spread table is as follows:

Spread Payout 1-card 5 to 7 1

2-card 4 to 1 3-card 2 to 1 4- to-11-card 1 to 1

The house edge table is as follows.

Decks 7 House Edge Risk 1 3.155% 2.672% 2 3.077% 2.609% 4 2.884% 2.447% 6 2.798% 2.375% 8 2.751% 2.335%

The spread probabilities 7 table is as follows.

Acey Deucey [edit]

Acey

Deucey,[2] also known as In-Between, Sheets, Between the 7 Sheets or Maverick, is a simple betting card game. Two cards are dealt to a player, who then bets on 7 whether the rank of a third card will fall between those of the first two.

Rules [edit]

the action, 7 each player must add their ante into the pot. Two cards are then dealt face-up to one player. That player 7 then bets from nothing to the amount that is in the pot at the time whether or not the third 7 card will numerically fall in between the first two. If the third card falls in between the two other cards, 7 the bettor takes the amount they bet out of the pot; if the third card falls outside of the two 7 other cards, the bettor must add what they bet to the pot; and if the third card matches the numerical 7 value of one of the other two cards, the bettor must add to the pot double what they bet. If 7 two cards of the same value come up, e.g. 2,2 the bettor picks if the next card will be higher 7 or lower and bets. If the next card is the same as the last two, i.e. a 2, the bettor 7 must triple their bet.

Regionally specific rules [edit]

The

rules and specifics of the game often vary from region to 7 region. For example in Liaoning province, northeast China the minimum number of players is 4 and each player is required 7 to ante before the first card is turned. Two cards are then dealt face-up to one player. That player then 7 bets from nothing to the amount that is in the pot at the time (during the first time around the 7 table players are only allowed to bet up to half of the pot) whether or not the third card will 7 numerically fall in between the first two. Other regions, such as in the United States, play the game by combining 7 two decks of cards. This adds another dynamic to the game due to the extra number of similar type cards. 7 Beyond that, most of the other rules followed by United States players are similar to those which are observed in 7 the Liaoning province.

Just about all regions play if the third card falls in between the two other cards, the bettor 7 takes the amount they bet out of the pot; if the third card falls outside of the two other cards, 7 the bettor must add what they bet to the pot; and if the third card matches the numerical value of 7 one of the other two cards, this is referred to as a "Post" and the bettor must add to the 7 pot double their own initial bet. If two cards of the same value come up, e.g. 2,2 the bettor picks 7 if the next card will be higher or lower and bets. If the next card is the same as the 7 last two, i.e. a 2, this is considered a "Post" and the player is required to pay triple the bet 7 for the hand.

Aces

[edit]

In addition to this, there is a special rule for Aces. If the first card 7 turned is an Ace the player may choose its value as either the high Ace or the low one. Low 7 Ace is always lower than any other card, including the deuce. If an Ace comes up as the second card 7 turned it is always considered the high Ace. If a player "Posts" on an Ace they are required to pay 7 four times their bet for that hand. Aces also cause an automatic loss if it is the third card turned 7 when the first two cards are a match, e.g. 6,6. The best spread in the game is considered to be 7 a low Ace on the left and a high Ace on the right. This is also one of the worst 7 hands to get as you run the risk of the third card being an Ace and having to pay four 7 times your bet for the hand.

Variations [edit]

A variation is to split the cards if two end cards are 7 the same value. This requires the bettor to ante in for two hands and the dealer would draw one more 7 card under each of the end cards. After this, the same rules apply.

Some new rules that increase payouts and betting:

Blind 7 Pot - Bet the pot before your 2 outside cards are placed. In the case of a win, you win 7 the pot. If you are outside of your cards you lose half the pot. If you post you have to 7 pay the full amount of the pot.

"AutoPot" - Any A-2 played as your outside cards automatically make the player bet 7 the full amount of the pot.

Post Bet - You can bet that your inside card will match one of your 7 outside cards. In the case of this you win the full pot and in addition each player pays an equal 7 percentage to match the pot. Therefore, the player that post would win 2x the pot. If the player bets the 7 post and misses, they owe half the amount of the pot to the pot.

Satan 6s - Any player that gets 7 6-6-6 as their cards must pay 6x the amount of the pot to the pot.

In popular culture [edit]

The 7 game show Card Sharks is based on Acey Deucey and closely resembles the rules.[citation needed] In the show, two players 7 answer high-low survey questions, and guess whether the next card is higher or lower (with duplicates counting as wrong).

Acey-ducey is 7 often mentioned in the book series The Corps by W.E.B. Griffin which is set in the Pacific Theater of World 7 War II, and follows the lives of a group of marines in special service. Griffin never explains the game in 7 the slightest, but his characters are often playing it when they are interrupted by the war, i.e. required to stop 7 playing to perform some duty.

In 1978 a type-in program BASIC video game version was distributed via the book BASIC Computer 7 Games.[3]

An unsold 1985 game show pilot hosted by Jim McKrell, entitled Split Decision, had contestants playing the game Acey Deucey 7 while answering general knowledge questions. Each player picked a card to share and had their own base card, and tried 7 to fit a card in or bust the other player.
