Giorgia Meloni critica a Israel por caer en una trampa de Hamas en su guerra en Gaza

Giorgia Meloni, primera ministra de Italia, criticó a Israel por caer en una trampa puesta por Hamas en su guerra en Gaza durante una conferencia de prensa que cerró la cumbre del G7 en Bari. Meloni también declaró que la UE no contribuirá directamente a un préstamo de R$50 mil millones a Ucrania acordado por los líderes del G7.

Meloni subrayó su estatus al anunciar que comenzará conversaciones el lunes sobre la asignación de cargos importantes en la UE sobre la base de que Europa debe aceptar el veredicto del pueblo reflejado en los resultados de las elecciones parlamentarias europeas de la semana pasada.

Meloni fue una de las pocas autoridades europeas que obtuvo buenos resultados en las elecciones. Dijo: "Si queremos extraer de la votación la indicación de que todo está bien, es una lectura distorsionada. Los ciudadanos quieren pragmatismo, un enfoque menos ideológico."

Meloni es vista como vital para la reelección de Ursula von der Leyen, cuyo Partido Popular Europeo encabezó, como presidenta de la Comisión, pero insistió en que Italia también buscará puestos importantes en la Comisión.

La cuestión del aborto y los derechos LGBTQ+

Meloni minimizó una controversia sobre la eliminación de la referencia al aborto, que luchó por eliminar a pesar de las protestas de Francia y Estados Unidos, del comunicado final del G7. El comunicado del año pasado, emitido bajo la presidencia japonesa, se refería explícitamente al derecho al aborto.

Dijo que "entendía por qué algunos buscaban encender tal fuego", una referencia al presidente francés Emmanuel Macron que públicamente destacó su diferencia con Meloni, pero insistió en que "el asunto se construyó de manera totalmente artificial, la controversia no existió en nuestras discusiones porque no había razón para discutir".

El comunicado se refería al "acceso universal a servicios de salud adecuados, asequibles y de calidad para las mujeres, incluida la salud y los derechos sexuales y reproductivos completos para todas".

También insistió en que no había intentado alterar el compromiso con los derechos de LGBTQ+, diciendo: "No estamos dando ni un solo paso atrás, y por lo tanto, las expectativas de algunos se han visto frustradas, porque la historia no correspondía a la verdad".

Meloni, una autodescrita "madre cristiana" ha condenado en el pasado a los "lobbies LGBT", pero dijo que no se han cambiado derechos desde que asumió el poder en 2024.

La guerra en Gaza e Ucrania

En cierta medida, sus comentarios sobre Israel cayendo en una trampa puesta por Hamas fueron las declaraciones más sorprendentes. Aunque enfatizó la necesidad de recordar los ataques a mujeres y niños el 7 de octubre, "parece que Israel ha caído 7 en una trampa, una trampa de Hamas que tenía
