Argentina's Julio Furch is undergoing treatment at the CT Rei Pelé for a muscle injury he sustained during the first leg of the Paulistão final against Palmeiras. The midfielder is attempting to recover in time for the second leg, which takes place next Sunday at Allianz Parque.

Furch left the game in the first half with discomfort and was later diagnosed with inflammation in his left quadriceps muscle and tendon. In a statement, Santos' medical department called it a "inflammatory process" that could be due to excessive effort and overloading in the muscle/tendon region. The injury is impacting his availability for the final.

If Furch cannot play, coach Fabio Carille may replace him with Morelos, or change the team's formation to flood the central striker position.

With almost 16,000 fans in attendance, Santos has not recorded a league win against their three main rivals in a single season since 1975. Next Sunday's final will be the first time that a match between the two teams has been played at Allianz Parque since 2024.

Former Barcelona star Andres Iniesta, who now plays for Vissel Kobe in Japan, spoke about the influence of Neymar and the importance of the upcoming match against Palmeiras. Supporters have high hopes for Astro's presence at the match, following his attendance at a previous match at the Vila Belmiro.

Ex-coach Jorge Jesus has been replaced by Gheni Guerrero, as Jesus left the club following allegations of sexual harassment. Neymar has not yet renewed his contract and speculation is mounting about a potential return to Barcelona. The Brazilian selection's top-scorer, Rizado has 15 goals in 40 matches and has signed an extension until 2025 with the Saudi club. Former assistant coach Ariel Cuff has replaced Jesus as coach.

The Peixe received a record R$ 1.075.330,00 at the gate for the match against Palmeiras. The club's marketing representative also expressed appreciation for the attendance. Bringing in a major player like Neymar and featuring three attackers would make the team stronger and perhaps deliver better results in the long run, Gheni argued.

Following a 1-1 draw at the Oscar Coast, a 2-1 victory at the Arena Pernambuco, and a 2-0 success against Capivariano at home, Atlético Goianiense has opened a ticket pre-sale for the match against Sao Paulo at the Brinco de Ouro stadium. The arena's seating capacity for the match is 33,300 and season-ticket holders will qualify for a discount.

In more Santos news, Carlos Furlan, a club marketing executive, says Neymar's rumored return to the Sao Paulo-based club is highly unlikely and dependent on many variables. Furlan believes that the move would only be feasible if Neymar comes at the end of 2024, citing the number of players already at the club, salary constraints and financial limitations. With Neymar currently injured, Furlan doubts the feasibility of such a plan.
