From what I can gather from your article, 1xBet offers a live streaming feature that allows users to watch sporting events live on their devices. This feature is accessible once users register, make a deposit, and have an active 1xBet account.

The article also mentions that users can watch live sporting events such as football, basketball, and tennis, among others.

Furthermore, the 1xBet live streaming feature is considered by many as one of the easiest and most convenient ways to watch sports online, as users can access it from the comfort of their own homes.

In addition, the article briefly mentions that withdrawals can be made using various methods, but these may vary depending on the user's preference and the options supported by 1xBet.

However, the article doesn't go into much detail about how to register or how to use the live streaming feature, and it mainly focuses on introducing the service and its benefits.
