Outside bets in roulette carry the lowest risk. They cover more numbers yet the payouts are lower (1/1 for Red, Black, Odd, Even, 1 18, 19 36). These outside bets carry the best prospects for long-term wins.

The Game of Roulette: A Casino Game on OwlGames Nsikak Joseph · Follow 9 min read · Nov 22, 2024 -- Listen Share

Roulette is a popular casino game that involves betting on the outcome of a spinning wheel.

The wheel has 37 or 38 numbered slots, each with a red or black colour. A small ball is released in the opposite direction of the wheel's rotation and eventually settles in one of the slots.

The players can place their bets on the table, which has a layout that matches the wheel's slots and the bets can be on a single number, a range of numbers, a colour, or a combination of these.

The game is based on chance, and the payout depends on the type of bet and the odds of winning.

Roulette is one of the oldest and most widely played gambling games in the world.

Different Forms of Roulette Games

Roulette is a game that has many variations, each with its characteristics and features.

Some of the most common forms of roulette games are:

1. European Roulette

This is the most popular and widely played form of roulette in the world. It has a wheel with 37 pockets, numbered from 0 to 36. The zero pocket is green, while the rest are red or black. The house edge of European roulette is 2.7%, which means that the casino has a 2.7% advantage over the players in the long run.

2. American Roulette

This form of roulette is mainly found in North America.

It

has a wheel with 38 pockets, numbered from 0 to 36, plus a double zero pocket. The double zero pocket is also green, and it increases the house edge of American roulette to 5.26%, which means that the casino has a 5.26% advantage over the players in the long run.

American roulette is less favourable to players than European roulette, but it is more exciting and challenging.

3. French Roulette

This type of roulette is similar to European roulette, but it has some additional rules that make it more favourable to the players.

One of these rules is called la partage, which means that if the ball lands on the zero pocket, the players who made even-money bets (such as red/black, odd/even, or high/low) will get half of their stake back.

Another rule is called en prison, which means that if the ball lands on the zero pocket, the players who made even-money bets can either take half of their stake back or leave their bet on the table for the next spin. If the next spin also results in a zero, the bet is lost.

These rules lower the house edge of French roulette to 1.35%, which means that the casino has a 1.35% advantage over the players in the long run.

4. Racetrack

Roulette

This is a form of roulette that is based on the European or French roulette, but it has a different layout of the betting table.

The table has a racetrack-shaped section that shows the order of the numbers on the wheel, and it allows the players to make bets on specific sections or patterns of the wheel.

For example, the players can make bets on the voisins du zéro (neighbors of zero), which covers the 17 numbers that are closest to the zero on the wheel, or the orphelins (orphans), which cover the 8 numbers that are not included in any other section.

These bets are also known as announced or call bets because the players have to announce them to the dealer before placing them.

Roulette Betting Options and Payouts

Just as Roulette has different forms, there are several betting options. Each of these options has different odds and payouts.

Roulette betting options and payouts are the terms used to describe the different types of bets you can make in roulette and the amount of money you can win if your bet is successful.

The betting options in roulette are divided into 3 main categories: inside bets, outside bets, and announced bets.

1. Inside Bets

These are bets on specific numbers or groups of numbers within the grid of the table. They have higher payouts, but lower chances of winning.

Some examples of inside bets are:

Straight up: This is a bet on a single number, such as 7 or 32. It pays 35 to 1.

Split: This is a bet on two adjacent numbers, such as 14 and 15, or 25 and 26. It pays 17 to 1.

- Street: This is a bet on three consecutive numbers in a horizontal line, such as 4, 5, and 6, or 19, 20, and 21. It pays 11 to 1.

- Corner: This is a bet on four numbers that form a square, such as 10, 11, 13, and 14, or 28, 29, 31, and 32. It pays 8 to 1.

- Six line: This is a bet on six numbers that form two adjacent streets, such as 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, or 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, and 27. It pays 5 to 1.

- Five numbers: This is a bet on five numbers that include 0, 00, 1, 2, and 3. It is only available in American roulette, and it pays 6 to 1.

2. Outside Bets

These are bets on larger groups of numbers, such as the colour, parity, or range of the numbers.

They

have lower payouts, but higher chances of winning:

- Red or Black: This is a bet on whether the ball will land on a red or a black pocket. It pays 1 to 1.

- Even or Odd:

This is a bet on whether the ball will land on an even or an odd number. It pays 1 to 1.

- Low or High: This is a bet on whether the ball will land on a low number (1 to 18) or a high number (19 to 36). It pays 1 to 1.

- Dozen: This is a bet on one of the three groups of 12 numbers, such as 1 to 12, 13 to 24, or 25 to 36. It pays 2 to 1.

- Column:

This is a bet on one of the three vertical columns of 12 numbers, such as 1, 4, 7, 10, 13, 16, 19, 22, 25, 28, 31, and 34. It pays 2 to 1.

3. Announced Bets

These are special bets that are available in some roulette variants, such as French roulette. They are also known as call bets, because they are announced by the player to the dealer, rather than placed on the table.

They cover specific sections or patterns of the wheel, and they have different payouts depending on the number of chips involved:

- Voisins du

zéro: This is a bet on the 17 numbers that are closest to the zero on the wheel, such as 0, 2, 3, 4, 7, 12, 15, 18, 19, 21, 22, 25, 26, 28, 29, 32, and 35. It requires 9 chips, and it pays according to the type of bet within the group.

- Tiers du cylindre:

This is a bet on the 12 numbers that are opposite to the zero on the wheel, such as 5, 8, 10, 11, 13, 16, 23, 24, 27, 30, 33, and 36. It requires 6 chips, and it pays 17 to 1 for each split bet within the group.

- Orphelins: This is a bet on the 8 numbers that are not covered by the voisins du zéro or the tiers du cylindre, such as 1, 6, 9, 14, 17, 20, 31, and 34. It requires 5 chips, and it pays 35 to 1 for the straight bet on 1, and 17 to 1 for each split bet within the group.

- Neighbors: This is a bet on a single number and the two numbers on either side of it on the wheel, such as 17 and its neighbours 34 and 6. It requires 5 chips, and it pays 35 to 1 for each straight bet within the group.

- Final bets: These are bets on all the numbers that end with the same digit, such as 2, 12, 22, and 32. They require 4 chips for the numbers 0 to 6, and 3 chips for the numbers 7 to 9, and they pay 35 to 1 for each straight bet within the group.

How to Play Roulette

Roulette is a simple and fun game that anyone can play at a casino or online. Here are the basic steps to play roulette:

1. Choose a roulette table that suits your budget and preference.

The European, American, and French have slightly different layouts and rules. For example, European and French roulette have only one zero on the wheel, while American roulette has two zeros. This affects the house's edge and the odds of winning.

Generally, European and French roulette have a lower house edge than American roulette.

2. Place your bets on the table before the dealer spins the wheel.

You can bet on any number or combination of numbers, as well as on the colour, parity, or range of the numbers. You can also place multiple bets at the same time, as long as they do not exceed the table limit.

There are different types of chips to use, such as inside chips, outside chips, and announced chips, to make different kinds of bets. For example, the inside chip is used to bet on a single number, or a split chip to bet on two adjacent numbers.

3. Watch the wheel spin and wait for the ball to land on one of the pockets.

The dealer will announce "no more bets" when the wheel starts to slow down, and then drop the ball on the wheel. The ball will bounce around and eventually settle in one of the pockets. The dealer will then mark the winning number and color on the table, and collect the losing bets.

The winning bets are paid according to the payout table, which varies depending on the type of bet and the roulette variant.

4. Collect your winnings or place new bets for the next round.

You can either cash out your winnings or use them to make new bets. The dealer will clear the table and spin the wheel again, and the game will continue until you decide to stop.

Rules of Roulette

The dealer clears the table of the previous bets and payouts.

The players place their bets on the table by placing their chips on the desired spot or spots.

The dealer spins the wheel in one direction and tosses the ball in the opposite direction.

The players can continue to place or change their bets until the dealer announces "no more bets".

The ball lands in one of the pockets of the wheel, determining the winning number and colour.

The dealer places a marker on the winning number on the table and pays the winners according to the payout table.

The losing bets are collected by the dealer and the next round begins.
