The following year Fey built the 0 4-11-44 in his basement; it proved so successful at a local saloon that he soon quit his job and opened 0 a factory to produce more units. In 1898 Fey built the Card Bell, the first three-reel slot machine with automatic 0 cash payouts. The Card Bell had a handle that set the reels in motion when it was pushed down and 0 playing card suitmarks that lined up to form poker hands. His next slot machine, the Liberty Bell, was built in 0 1899 and used horseshoes and bells as well as playing card suitmarks on the reels. Three bells lined up in 0 a row meant the top payout. Chiefly because of the 1906 San Francisco earthquake, only 4 of more than 100 0 Liberty Bell machines built by Fey survive. The Liberty Bell proved immensely popular among saloon patrons in San Francisco and 0 was quickly copied by Fey's competitors, such as the Mills Novelty Company of Chicago. Forces of morality and the clergy, and 0 then of law, frequently opposed the operation of slot machines. By the time San Francisco banned them in 1909, there 0 were some 3,300 slot machines in the city. In order to circumvent the law, Fey and his competitors built machines with no coin slots in which purchase and payout (perhaps in drinks and cigars) occurred surreptitiously across a saloon counter. Soon most slot-machine factories relocated, especially to Chicago. The ubiquitous reel symbols of various fruits were first used in 1909 by the Industry Novelty Company. In an effort to circumvent legal restrictions on slot machines, the company called its machines chewing gum dispensers, replaced suitmarks on the reels with fruit symbols that suggested various flavours of chewing gum, and built a few machines that really did dispense gum. The idea was copied in the following year by the Mills Novelty Company, which added on their reels a picture of a chewing gum pack (soon stylized as the well-known "bar" symbol). The Mills Novelty Company also invented the "jackpot" in 1916, whereby certain combinations of symbols on the reels regurgitated all the coins in the machine. During the 1920s the machines were popular throughout much of the United States, especially in resort areas, and they continued to be popular into the Great Depression years of the '30s. But knowledge that the distribution of slot machines was often controlled by organized crime led to increasing legislation restricting their sale and transportation as well as their use except in private social clubs. Prohibition outside Nevada, which had relegalized gambling in 1931, was virtually total by 1951, although illegal operation, especially in private clubs, was widely ignored. Modern slot machines contain solid-state electronics that can be set for any desired frequency of payouts. Thus, the house advantage varies widely between about 1 and 50 percent depending on circumstances, such as legal requirements and competition from other casinos. Slot machines are by far the largest profit generator for nearly every casino, averaging 30 to 50 percent or even more of total revenue. Nevada alone has roughly 200,000 slot machines.
